

Chandale Void is a cutting-edge shoe designer with his finger on the pulse of the luxury footwear industry. His collection is the epitome of opulence and sophistication.

His line uses only the highest quality of materials, handcrafted in Italy in order to create the perfect balance between comfort and style. His collection includes high heels, low heels and sandals constructed to perfection. Plush fabric, supple leather and soft suede are used to create chic, timeless pieces.

Chandale's mission is to provide elegant, yet comfortable shoes for women with large and wide feet. "These women are entitled to the very same style options as women with size 7 feet".

After enrolling as a fashion design student at Bauder College in Atlanta, Chandale's interest in high-end fashion was cultivated. In order to hone his design skills, he studied at the ARS Sutoria Institute in Milan, known world-wide as the most prestigious school for footwear model design.

A Connecticut native, Chandale drew inspiration from the avant-garde fashions that neighboring New York City is known for. "My inspiration comes from style, a true passion for the shapes of shoes and women looking good in their shoes".

Chandale's unique design aesthetic and love of intricate detail are key elements of his signature collection. Set to take the women's shoe industry by storm, Chandale Void knows how to make a woman's foot look and feel beautiful at any size.
