

The Midtown Man Hunt

Everyone knows that Midtown is the gay capital of Atlanta. Although we love our gay guy friends, you ladies may be wondering where you can find a man that plays for your team. Here's the scoop on where to find a single heterosexual hottie in the urban jungle.

1. Fox Sports Grille

Straight men love sports and you love straight men. Head over to Fox Sports Grille in Atlantic Station during the start of football season. Pull up a chair at the bar and take in the scene. Before you know it, a handsome gentleman will be buying you a drink and offering to teach you all about the game.

2. Home Depot

Home improvement stores are where the manly men go. Put on a flirty dress and show up at the Home Depot on Ponce to strut the aisles. If a cute guy catches your eye, ask him if he knows where you can find a hammer. Play your cards right and he could be at your apartment hanging your picture frames in no time.

3. Kroger

Single men have no one to cook for them. So when they are not eating out, you can often find them in the frozen food section of your local grocery store. Swing by around 5:30pm, they are probably there to grab something for dinner on their way home from work. You get a hunky man and he gets to imagine what's under your blouse while you're flirting with him next to the freezers, everyone wins!

Tamara Franklin is a Freelance Writer and Marketing professional. She utilizes her personal dating experiences to provide her unique perspective and commentary on the Atlanta dating scene. Learn more about Tamara at www.tamarafranklin.com, contact her at info@tamarafranklin.com.